

Peter Stolze

Pathways to Leadership® Facilitator

In September 2007, we were introduced to Peter through a client. When Peter visited us in March 2008, we quickly saw that he had all the qualifications to become a Pathways to Leadership® Facilitator.

“I love working with and serving people, and I love traveling and exploring the unknown. My work has taken me all over Europe and I understand business in an international context.”

Peter impressed us with his passion to serve. He has the natural ability to see people’s potential – and an added plus – he is fluent in English, German, French, Russian, and Portuguese.

Peter was accepted into our training and attended his first Pathways program in Switzerland in June 2008. Training took place in both Europe and the US. His first qualifying program was in Michigan and the second was in Germany. Peter was certified in January 2009, and has been working with many of our European clients since then.

His education is exemplary. Peter has credentials from Moscow Institute of International Affairs, a Fulbright Scholarship and Masters in Business Administration from the University of Miami, a BA from the Berlin School of Business, and a Master of Arts degree from the National University of Sports in Kiev.

Peter’s background as a lecturer and trade consultant and his work with Wella AG in Leipzig among other organizations has kept him on the pulse of business in Europe and the CIS countries.

Peter lives in Germany where his 3 children and his parents also live.

A citizen of the world, Peter regularly travels all over Europe and the CIS countries.

Recently he vacationed in the US with his children.
